I.

FACTUAL HISTORY¹

On November 13, 2007, agents spotted a group of people running north from Mexico near the San Ysidro Port of Entry. An agent tracked these people and saw some of them tumble into a minivan. Agents detained eight people. Agents later arrested Mr. Miguel Cedeno-Martinez, who was sitting behind the wheel of the minivan, and Jonathan Astorga-Madrigal, whom agents believe guided the people across the border.

On December 4, 2007, the government secured a six-count indictment against Mr. Cedeno-Martinez and Mr. Astorga-Madrigal, alleging violations of 8 U.S.C. § 1324.

¹The following facts are based on information provided by the government. Mr. Cedeno-Martinez does not admit their accuracy and reserves the right to challenge them.

II.MOTION COMPEL DISCOVERY

Mr. Cedenno-Martinez requests the following discovery. His request is not limited to those items that the prosecutor knows of. It includes all discovery listed below that is in the custody, control, care, or knowledge of any "closely related investigative [or other] agencies." See United States v. Bryan, 868 F.2d 1032 (9th Cir. 1989).

(1) Brady Information. The defendant requests all documents, statements, agents' reports, and tangible evidence favorable to the defendant on the issue of guilt and/or which affects the credibility of the government's case. Under Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963), impeachment as well as exculpatory evidence falls within the definition of evidence favorable to the accused. United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667 (1985); United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97 (1976).

(2) Any Proposed 404(b) Evidence. The government must produce evidence of prior similar acts under Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1) and Fed. R. Evid. 404(b) and any prior convictions which would be used to impeach as noted in Fed. R. Crim. P. 609. In addition, under Fed. R. Evid. 404(b), "upon request of the accused, the prosecution . . . shall provide reasonable notice in advance of trial . . . of the general nature" of any evidence the government proposes to introduce under Fed. R. Evid. 404(b) at trial. The defendant requests notice two weeks before trial to give the defense time to investigate and prepare for trial.

(3) Request for Preservation of Evidence. The defendant requests the preservation of all physical evidence that may be destroyed, lost, or otherwise put out of the possession, custody, or care of the government and which relate to the arrest or the events leading to the arrest in this case. This request includes, but is not limited to, the results of any fingerprint analysis, the defendant's personal effects, and any evidence seized from the defendant or any third party.

(4) Defendant's Statements. The defendant requests disclosure and production of all statements made by the defendant. This request includes, but is not limited to, the substance

1 of any oral statement made by the defendant, Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1)(A), and any written
2 or recorded statement made by the defendant. Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1)(B)(i)-(iii).

3 (5) Tangible Objects. The defendant seeks to inspect and copy as well as test, if 4 necessary, all other documents and tangible objects, including photographs, books, papers,
5 documents, alleged narcotics, fingerprint analyses, vehicles, or copies of portions thereof,
6 which are material to the defense or intended for use in the government's case-in-chief or 7 were obtained from or belong to the defendant. Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1)(E).

8 (6) Expert Witnesses. The defendant requests the name, qualifications, and a written 9 summary of the testimony of any person that the government intends to call as an expert
10 witness during its case in chief. Fed. R. Crim. P. 16(a)(1)(G).

11 (7) Witness Addresses. The defendant requests access to the government's witnesses.
12 Thus, counsel requests a witness list and contact phone numbers for each prospective 13 government witness. Counsel also requests the names and contact numbers for 14 witnesses to the crime or crimes charged (or any of the overt acts committed in furtherance 15 thereof) who will not be called as government witnesses.

16 (8) Jencks Act Material. Mr. Cedeno-Martinez requests production in advance of 17 trial of material discoverable under the Jencks Act, 18 U.S.C. § 3500. Advance production
18 will avoid needless delays at pretrial hearings and at trial. This request includes any "rough"
19 notes taken by the agents in this case. This request also includes production of transcripts
20 of the testimony of any witness before the grand jury. See 18 U.S.C. § 3500(e)(1)-(3).

21 (9) Informants and Cooperating Witnesses. Mr. Cedeno-Martinez requests disclosure 22 of the name(s), address(es), and location(s) of all informants or cooperating witnesses used
23 or to be used in this case, and in particular, disclosure of any informant who was a percipient
24 witness in this case or otherwise participated in the crime charged against Mr. Cedeno-25 Martinez. Roviaro v. United States, 353 U.S. 52, 61-62 (1957). The government must 26 disclose any information derived from informants which exculpates or tends to exculpate Mr.
27 Cedeno-Martinez. Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963). The government must disclose
28 any information indicating bias on the part of any informant or cooperating witness. Id.

1 (10) Specific Discovery Requests

2 a. request for access to a-files.

3 Mr. Cedenno-Martinez requests access to the immigration, or “A-File,” of the 4 material witnesses involved in this case. See Fed. R. Crim. P. 16 (1)(E)(i).

5 b. request for disclosure of co-defendant’s statement.

6 Mr. Cedenno-Martinez requests a copy of the videotape of his co-defendant’s
7 statement to agents. Particularly given the government’s allegation of aiding and abetting, 8 this is discoverable under Fed. R. Crim. P. 16 (1)(E)(i)-(ii).

9 c. information regarding the released material witnesses

10 Mr. Cedenno-Martinez requests discovery and contact information regarding 11 the released material witnesses. As percipient witnesses, their identities are discoverable.
12 Cf. Roviato v. United States, 353 U.S. 52, 61-62 (1957). Moreover, as the government is 13 responsible for putting these material witnesses beyond the reach of defense counsel, it is 14 incumbent on the government to provide information that may lead to the defense being able 15 to contact them. See Fed. R. Crim. P. 16 (1)(E)(i).

16 (11) Residual Request. Mr. Cedenno-Martinez intends by this discovery motion to 17 invoke his rights to discovery to the fullest extent possible under the Federal Rules of 18 Criminal Procedure and the Constitution and laws of the United States.

19 III.

20 MOTION TO SUPPRESS STATEMENTS

21 1. Introduction

22 Mr. Cedenno-Martinez moves to suppress statements made by to Agent Byfield on the 23 basis of a Miranda violation. The violation of Mr. Cedenno-Martinez’s Miranda rights took 24 three forms.² First, before advising Mr. Cedenno-Martinez of his rights under Miranda, 25 immigration officials had earlier advised him of his “administrative rights.” Because these 26
27

28 ²The facts in this motion are from defense counsel’s review of the video of M. Cedenno-Martinez’s statement to agents.

1 administrative rights affirmatively advise a person that an attorney will not be provided for 2 them free of cost, the later Miranda warnings were confusing.

3 Second, although agents advised Mr. Ceden-Martinez of his right to contact the 4 Mexican Consulate, when Mr. Ceden-Martinez requested to do so, agents told him that he 5 could do so after speaking with them.

6 Third, when advising Mr. Ceden-Martinez of his rights under Miranda, agents
7 explained to Mr. Ceden-Martinez that if he did not have the funds to hire a lawyer “one can 8 be assigned.” This advisal falls short of the explicit requirement that agents make sure a 9 suspect make a knowing and voluntary waiver of their rights under Miranda. For these 10 reasons, both independently and combined, Mr. Ceden-Martinez never knowingly and 11 voluntarily waived his Miranda rights.

12 2. General legal principles

13 “For inculpatory statements made by a defendant during custodial interrogation to be 14 admissible in evidence, the defendant’s waiver of Miranda rights must be voluntary,
15 knowing, and intelligent.” United States v. Garibay, 143 F.3d 534, 536 (9th Cir. 1998)
16 (internal quotation marks omitted). The government bears the burden of demonstrating a 17 waiver of a person’s Miranda rights by a preponderance. Id. “The government’s burden to 18 make such a showing is great, and the court will indulge every reasonable presumption
19 against waiver of fundamental constitutional rights.” Id. (internal quotation marks omitted).

20 “What Miranda requires is meaningful advice to the unlettered and unlearned in 21 language which [they] can comprehend and on which [they] can knowingly act. In order for 22 the warning to be valid, the combination or the wording of its warnings cannot be 23 affirmatively misleading. The warning must be clear and not susceptible to equivocation.”
24 United States v. San Juan-Cruz, 314 F.3d 384, 387 (9th Cir. 2002) (internal quotation marks 25 and citations omitted) (brackets in original).

26 2. San Juan-Cruz requires suppression

27 To be valid, Miranda warnings must be clear and not confusing. San Juan-Cruz, 314
28 F.3d at 387. As the Ninth Circuit has held: “When one is told clearly that he or she does not

1 have the right to a lawyer free of cost and then subsequently advised, '[i]f you can't afford
2 a lawyer, one will be appointed for you,' it is confusing." Id. at 388. This is the situation 3 here.

4 As in San Juan-Cruz, before agents advised Mr. Ceden-Martinez of his rights under 5 Miranda, agents had advised Mr. Ceden-Martinez of his "administrative rights." These 6 "administrative rights" do not provide for appointed counsel, but rather affirmatively state
7 that a person is not entitled to appointed counsel. As was the case in San Juan-Cruz, because 8 of the earlier "administrative rights" warning, the later Miranda warnings were not 9 sufficiently clear to provide a clear advisal of Mr. Ceden-Martinez's rights under Miranda.
10 See San Juan-Cruz, 314 F.3d at 387-90.

11 Although agents did advise Mr. Ceden-Martinez that his "administrative rights" no 12 longer applied before questioning him, there is nothing in the agent's advisal to indicate that 13 Mr. Ceden-Martinez understood that the earlier warning that he did not have the right to an 14 appointed attorney no longer applied. In San Juan-Cruz, the Ninth Circuit did note that the 15 officer there "could have rectified the situation easily by clarifying his statements or advising 16 San Juan to disregard the Administrative Rights in favor of those that were read to him under 17 Miranda" San Juan-Cruz, 314 F.3d at 398. Here, however, agents did neither.

18 Rather, in a display of oblique bureaucratic speak, an agent asked whether he 19 understood "more or less" that his earlier administrative rights no longer applied and that 20 Mr. Ceden-Martinez was not going to be given a voluntary return to Mexico. From this it
21 is at least equally likely that Mr. Ceden-Martinez understood that his rights regarding a 22 voluntary return, not his rights at an immigration hearing, no longer applied. Notably, agents
23 never told Mr. Ceden-Martinez to "disregard" the "administrative rights" earlier read to him
24 "in favor of those" under Miranda. See San Juan-Cruz, 314 F.3d at 398. The agents'
25 retraction of Mr. Ceden-Martinez's "administrative rights" did not act to fully inform 26 Mr. Ceden-Martinez "what the nature of his rights was under the Fifth Amendment." Id.

1 3. Agents violated Mr. Cedeno-Martinez's right to contact the Mexican Consulate

2 Immediately following this confusing retraction of Mr. Cedeno-Martinez's
3 administrative rights, agents advised Mr. Cedeno-Martinez of his right to contact the 4 Mexican Consulate. Despite Mr. Cedeno-Martinez's request to do so, agents tell
5 Mr. Cedeno-Martinez that he can call the consulate when the agents get a chance. This 6 chance apparently did not arise until after agents interrogated Mr. Cedeno-Martinez.

7 Under the Vienna Convention, Mr. Cedeno-Martinez had a right to have agents notify 8 the Mexican Consulate, "without delay," of his arrest. United States v. Lombera-
9 Camorlinga, 206 F.3d 882, 884 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc). Here, agents informed
10 Mr. Cedeno-Martinez of his rights to speak to the Mexican Consulate, but when Mr. Cedeno-
11 Martinez tries to exercise his rights agents do not immediately, as required by the treaty, call 12 the consulate. Rather, agents specifically tell Mr. Cedeno-Martinez they will call the 13 consulate when they have the time, and continue to interrogate Mr. Cedeno-Martinez.
14 Indeed, according to a report provided by the government in discovery, it was not until about 15 five hours after Mr. Cedeno-Martinez's request to speak with a consular official that agents
16 actually respected that request. Of course, by that time, agents had long ago finished 17 interrogating Mr. Cedeno-Martinez.

18 Although suppression of statements is not, under Ninth Circuit law, a remedy for a 19 violation of the Vienna Convention's right to speak with a consular official, see Lombera-
20 Camorlinga, 206 F.3d at 889 (en banc), the agents' violation of Mr. Cedeno-Martinez's
21 consular rights is nonetheless relevant here.³ It was after this violation that agents gained a 22 putative waiver from Mr. Cedeno-Martinez of his rights under Miranda. The agents'
23 disregard for Mr. Cedeno-Martinez's request to speak with a consular official is a 24 circumstance the Court should take into consideration when deciding whether Mr. Cedeno-
25 Martinez knowingly and voluntarily waived his rights under Miranda. See Garibay, 143

26
27
28 ³Mr. Cedeno-Martinez does believe that suppression should be the remedy for such a violation, but recognizes this Court is bound by United States v. Lombera-Camorlinga, 206 F.3d 882 (9th Cir. 2000) (en banc).

1 F.3d at 535 (“In reviewing the totality of circumstances in which Garibay was interrogated,
2 it is clear that he was not aware of the nature of the constitutional rights he was waiving, and 3 that the district court clearly erred in finding that he knowingly and intelligently waived his 4 Miranda rights.”).

5 For a man in Mr. Ceden-Martinez’s position—a man with no criminal record and a 6 Fifth grade education—the agents telling him that he had a right to speak with someone, and 7 then not honoring that request, would be quite confusing. Mr. Ceden-Martinez’s request 8 to speak with someone indicates his hesitancy of deal with the agents without some type of 9 counsel, c.f. Edwards v. Arizona, 451 U.S. 477, 484-85 (1981), the agents’ refusal to 10 promptly honor his request is a factor this Court must consider.

11 4. The Miranda rights given were insufficient

12 Compounding the problems with the agents “retraction” of Mr. Ceden-Martinez’s 13 administrative rights, and the agents not fulfilling their obligation to immediately contact a 14 consular representative, the agents’ actual Miranda warnings were confusing.

15 In a rapid recitation of rights under Miranda, agents inform Mr. Ceden-Martinez that 16 if he cannot afford an attorney, one will be assigned to him. An agent then instructs 17 Mr. Ceden-Martinez to put his initials on a form to indicate that he understands his rights.
18 Coming as this does after the agents’ earlier actions, there is no fair assurance that 19 Mr. Ceden-Martinez did indeed understand that an attorney would be appointed to him at 20 no charge immediately if he requested.

21 5. Conclusion

22 For the reasons discussed above, both independently and combined, Mr. Ceden-
23 Martinez never knowingly and voluntarily waived his Miranda rights. Because he did not,
24 the government may not use those statements made by him. See Garibay, 143 F.3d at 536.

25 IV.

26 MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE FURTHER MOTIONS

27 Mr. Ceden-Martinez has received 194 pages of discovery. He requests leave to file 28 further motions if necessary.

V.

CONCLUSION

Mr. Ceden-Martinez requests this Court grant his motions.
